Do you have a shortage of physicians in your country?

- Yes, practically in all specializations.
- Moreover, the practicing doctors are aging.

Is there a plan in your country to increase the number of medical students? If yes, how does it look?

- Starting from the academic year 2019/2020, the government grant to universities was increased, enabling a 15% increase in the number of admitted medical students.
- Further increase in the student count is hindered by:
 - limited teaching spaces
 - shortage of educators – physicians, who also have a relatively high average age.
 - The average age of associate professors (docent) is 55 years, and the average age of professors is 63 years.

Do you have any private medical schools in your country or are any private medical schools planned?
If yes, are they geared to local or international students
(e.g., other languages)?

- There are no private medical faculties in the Czech Republic.
- All public medical faculties offer English-language study programs (for profit).

Is your chamber involved in the discussions?

- We have no information about any plans to establish a private medical faculty in the Czech Republic.
